College and Career Readiness Standards for Speaking and Listening:

4. Present information, findings, and supporting evidence such that listeners can follow the line of reasoning and the organization, development, and style are appropriate to task, purpose, and audience.
5. Make strategic use of digital media and visual displays of data to express information and enhance understanding of presentations.
6. Adapt speech to a variety of contexts and communicative tasks, demonstrating command of formal English when indicated or appropriate.

There are many ways you can present in your classroom.

- You could tell a story.
- You could show and tell your class about something that is important to you.
- You could draw a picture and describe what you drew.

You should speak very clearly and loudly so everyone can understand you. Use your senses to help you describe details like color and shape. Remember to make eye contact to keep your audience's attention!

Describing

Is it complete?

Making complete sentences

Draw a picture of a favorite person, place, thing or event.

You could draw:

- your last birthday party
- your best friend
- your classroom
- your favorite place.

Tell your class about what you drew. Use details to describe the person, place, thing or event you picked.
